

VALLEY BOX HISTORY

*45 Years of Packaging Experience Serving Southern California.
Integrity and creativity sets our staff into a class of their own.*

VALLEY BOX
SUCCESSFULLY
TACKLES THE TOUGHER JOBS

This 50 plus foot diameter expansion bellows was manufactured in El Cajon California during the nuclear power plant development era.

Deemed one of the largest shipments in its day, ground transportation to the Port of San Diego required briefly closing local highways.

Photos taken in the 1960's

Large rail shipments at the Marshall Street Team Tracks in El Cajon were a common site. Here a cement batch plant is being shipped to central Mexico via San Diego & Arizona Eastern Railroad.

